Government Use of Scarlet Fever Toxoid Held Up By Private Patent

WASHINGTON — On the walls of the office of the Public Health Service hangs a graph. On it are lines that look like a jagged mountain range. Doctors call it the Scarlet Fever Range, and point to the high peak of 7,000
cases in the United States during the week of March 18.

After eight years of experimentation, Public Health doctors think they have found a way to knock the top off this peak.

They have discovered a toxoid, which shot into the arms of children, inoculates them from the disease. Eleven hundred people have been inoculated, then tested. 83 per cent were immune.

But there is one serious hitch.

This new toxoid is based upon a toxin discovered by two Chicago
doctors, George and Gladys Dick.
They worked out a formula which also inoculates against scarlet fever, but Public Health officers find certain faults with it. Reaction to it by the patient is somewhat violent; also five doses are required.

However, the Dick toxin is absolutely essential as the base for the new Public Health toxoid. It cannot be made without it. And the Dicks have patented their formula.

Furthermore they have declined
so far, to relinquish it to the Government. Dr. George Dick has indicated that he might give the discovery to science, but his wife,
Dr. Gladys Dick, declines.

And the Justice Department finds their patent valid, upholds their exclusive rights. If the Public Health officers use the Dick toxin for the general public, they can be sued personally, and intimidations have been given that this might happen.

Meanwhile, Public Health doctors watch the Scarlet Fever
Range with a peak 7,000 cases
high and hope for a friendly adjustment which will level it to nothing.

DEMOCRATS TO FILL TICKET; VOTE TO ASSIST J. F. MADER

Bowers' Name to Be Written in for Coroner; Opposes Phillips

ENDORSE 2 OTHERS

Candidate Also Sought to Run Against Davis

That the Pickaway-co Democratic ticket at the November election will be a complete one was announced today after the Democratic executive committee, 14
members present, met Tuesday
evening in the auditor's office.

T. D. Krinn, secretary, presided
in the absence of C. A. Leist, chairman.

It was the almost unanimous expression of the committee that vacancies now existing in the Democratic lineup be filled. They include prosecuting attorney where Ray W. Davis, Republican, seeking his second term, is so far unopposed, and coroner where Dr. G. D.
Phillips, Republican, seeking his initial term is also so far without opposition.

Just who will run against Prosecutor Davis is not certain but it was said Wednesday that the choice lies between two persons.

WRITE NAMES IN

The committee was informed
that Dr. C. E. Bowers, Democrat,
now coroner, had said he would
permit his name to be written into
the ballot for re-election. Coroner
Bowers did not file at the primary.

Whether the Republican party
will react to this decision is not certain. At present there are two Democrats without opposition at
either the primary or general election. W. W. Adkins for his second term as common pleas judge, and
A. L. Wilder for his first complete
term as clerk of courts.

The committee also went on record endorsing the candidacy of John F. Mader, E. Main-st., for
congressman from the 11th Ohio
district. Mr. Mader appeared at the meeting.

The endorsement of the committee is considered quite significant. Mr. Mader is opposed for the nomination by Mel G. Underwood, Louis M. Day, H. B. Welch,
Thomas Wright, and Dr. J. M.
Lantz.

LISTS PLATFORM

Mr. Mader, well known throughout the district where he has traveled
for a number of years, is of the opinion that a candidate without a platform is like a ship without a rudder.

In a pamphlet he is circulating
through the district he lists 32
items which he favors and 16 to
which he is opposed.

His statement says: "It is plain
to be seen that instead of the
'New Deal' going too far it has
only started and the big job is
ahead of us. I have had wide experience in the business and commercial field, which makes me
capable to help solve these problems, and worthy of being your
congressman."

Mr. Mader, Pickaway-co "favorite son," is the only candidate
for congress to whom the committee has offered its support.

In addition to the endorsement
and announcement that it intended
to fill the ticket for the November
election, the committee recommended the appointment of Harold
M. Beavers for temporary postmaster of the Orient, Scioto-twp.
office. Congressman Mel G.
Underwood, in a recent telegram,
asked Chairman Leist for such an appointment.

OKED ATER, TOO

H. F. Ater, Perry-twp., was also
endorsed for an accounting position with the Public Works administration at Delaware.

3 DIE AT CROSSING

LORAIN, July 25.—Death
lurked at a railroad crossing near
here today and claimed the lives
of three men whose roadster
rammed into the side of a moving freight train and then burst into flames.

The victims were Paul Kofco,
23, of Avon, O.; Frank Blobe of La Grange, O.; and Michael Jay-
horn of Lorain.

According to Engineer E. H.
Messenger and Fireman H. S. Wilcox of the Nickel Plate railroad
train, the trio's automobile
crashed into the fifth car behind
the engine. It immediately caught fire and by the time the train was stopped and the train crew could
reach the wreckage, the three bodies were burned almost beyond recognition.

Blobe and Jayhorn were employed on the farm of Kofco's
parents.

company's three respective grades,
plus four cents state tax and one cent federal tax.

TOWN ISOLATED BY DIPHTHERIA

SHARON SPRINGS, Kan., July 25.—This western Kansas town was practically isolated from the outside world today
by a vigorously enforced
quarantine to prevent the spread of a diphtheria epidemic which already has taken five lives. All roads leading into the town were blocked as the number of diphtheria victims increased overnight from 60 to 170.

TWO FIRE CALLS

Fire department answered two calls Tuesday afternoon.

The first at 2:50 p. m. was at the home of Mrs. Bernice Wiggins, Clinton-st. where a fire, originating in a waste-paper basket, spread to the walls of the kitchen with about $30 damage. Andrew Doll-son lives in the property.

The second call was on W.
Main-st. where a Dodge roadster,
belonging to an Illinois motorist,
caught fire from a short-circuited battery cable. Little damage resulted.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Adam Petrella, 23, Columbus,
and Avelene Rife, 21, Circleville.

James H. Quinn, 22, Columbus, and Esther Russell, 21, Ashville.

CROPS WITHERING

As another day of burning temperatures passed Wednesday,
weather observers predicted the ruination of crops if relief is not forthcoming soon.

With the mercury at 97 at 1
p. m., the official reading was expected to go above 100 again Wednesday. Tuesday's high mark was 102 and it remained comparatively warm during the night,
with the lowest mark registered at 69.

Mercury went "over the top" in a thermometer in front of the American Hotel about 10 a. m.
Wednesday. At that time it was above 120 degrees.

Corn, potatoes, tomatoes and other garden crops are drying up as a result of the intense heat and nothing less than an overbountiful of rainfall can help them it is said.

up at 10:30 o'clock last night with orders to resume deliberations
this morning.

Court attaches said there was no indication of a heated discussion in the jury room before the jurors were ordered locked up for the night.

The jurors were quietly from
the jury room to a downtown hotel.

Allen and Miss Marsh were accused of participating in a wild

that Dr. C. E. Bowers, Democrat,
now coroner, had said he would
permit his name to be written into
the ballot for re-election. Coroner
Bowers did not file at the primary.

Whether the Republican party
will react to this decision is not
certain. At present there are two Democrats without opposition at
either the primary or general election. W. W. Adkins for his second
term as common pleas judge, and
A. L. Wilder for his first complete
term as clerk of courts.

The committee also went on record endorsing the candidacy of
John F. Mader, E. Main-st., for
congressman from the 11th Ohio
district. Mr. Mader appeared at
the meeting.

The endorsement of the committee is considered quite significant. Mr. Mader is opposed for
the nomination by Mel G. Under-
wood, Louis M. Day, H. B. Welch,
Thomas Wright, and Dr. J. M.
Lantz.

LISTS PLATFORM

Mr. Mader, well known through-
out the district where he has traveled
for a number of years, is of the
opinion that a candidate without a
platform is like a ship without a
rudder.

In a pamphlet he is circulating
through the district he lists 32
items which he favors and 16 to
which he is opposed.

His statement says: "It is plain
to be seen that instead of the
'New Deal' going too far it has
only started and the big job is
ahead of us. I have had wide experience in the business and commercial field, which makes me
capable to help solve these problems, and worthy of being your
congressman."

Mr. Mader, Pickaway-co "favorite son," is the only candidate
for congress to whom the committee has offered its support.

In addition to the endorsement
and announcement that it intended
to fill the ticket for the November
election, the committee recommended the appointment of Harold
M. Beavers for temporary postmaster of the Orient, Scioto-twp.
office. Congressman Mel G.
Underwood, in a recent telegram,
asked Chairman Leist for such an
appointment.

OKED ATER, TOO

H. F. Ater, Perry-twp., was also
endorsed for an accounting position with the Public Works administration at Delaware.

3 DIE AT CROSSING

LORAIN, July 25.—Death
lurked at a railroad crossing near
here today and claimed the lives
of three men whose roadster
rammed into the side of a moving
freight train and then burst into
flames.

The victims were Paul Kofco,
23, of Avon, O.; Frank Blobe of La Grange, O.; and Michael Jay-
horn of Lorain.

According to Engineer E. H.
Messenger and Fireman H. S. Wil-
cox of the Nickel Plate railroad
train, the trio's automobile
crashed into the fifth car behind
the engine. It immediately caught
fire and by the time the train was
stopped and the train crew could
reach the wreckage, the three
bodies were burned almost beyond
recognition.

Blobe and Jayhorn were employed on the farm of Kofco's
parents.

McClarren's Rally, Feels Short of Eshelman Runs

The McClarren Meats scored five runs in the eighth inning of their game with the Eshelman Feeds Tuesday evening, but fell one run behind when the final count was made, the Feeds without Eddie Cellman winning 8-7.

The rally of the McClarren team was aided by two boots by Dewey, a bad throw by Rihl, a pair of singles and Leasure's right field corner triple.

The Feeds held a comfortable lead at the time, however taking advantage of poor receiving and some ragged outfield work in the early innings.

McCLAREN CLOUTS

"Alice the Goon" Goldsberry's team scored one run in each of the first three innings, tallied again in the fifth, twice in the sixth and twice again in the eighth. The McClarrens got one in the first and one in the sixth, a long home run to right field by Manager Tate McClarren, then five in the eighth.

Fox was the batting hero for the losers with four singles, while J. Valentine hit safely three times for the Eshelman outfit and Tomilson smacked two triples, scoring on one when Bowsher made a bad relay to the plate.

Leonard Buskirk, although tossing off wild pitches occasionally, was tough for the Eshelman nine fanning 10 men. He gave only seven hits while the McClarrens hit Bus Caudy, new Eshelman moundman, safely 13 times.

Dade and Hammel were the umpires.

Tonight finds the Circle City dairy and the Container Corporation meeting.

Vast Power in Air

Electrical energy sufficient to provide 160,000,000 horse power for every person on earth is said by scientists to exist between the atmosphere and stratosphere. The world is like a dynamo, with its negative electrical field in the earth's atmosphere, and its positive field in the high thin air of the stratosphere.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

A REPORT THAT JIMMY Fox, Philadelphia Athletic clubber, will be with the Boston Red Sox next year, has been confirmed by Davis J. Walsh, INS sports editor, says; no less a personage than Tom Yawkey, Red Sox money man, has let the cat out of the bag, Walsh declares.

Earl Combs, veteran outfielder of the Yankees, is through baseballing for the season. He leaped high trying to snag a ball off the fence at St. Louis yesterday and suffered a fractured skull and a broken collar bone. There is some danger of a brain hemorrhage, his physician says—No visitors are allowed in his room.

You remember Dickie Kerr, the little southpaw who did the impossible by winning two games for the Chicago White Sox in the 1919 world series when the rest of the Sox didn't want to win—Well, in case you do remember him, he is seriously ill at his home in Houston, Texas. Kerr blanked the Cincinnati Reds once and won another game 2-1 in the series that saw many of his teammates barred from baseball for life.

BOB O'FARRELL IS READY for the big boot at Cincinnati with Charlie Dressen to succeed him. "I said," reliably, "O'Farrell promised to bring the team out of the cellar and we aren't blaming him for not doing it—There isn't a manager in the country that can make a ball club of that bunch of hasbeens."

HOW WOMEN CAN WIN MEN AND MEN WIN

The Favor of Other Men

Unless two pints of bile juice flow daily from your liver into your bowels, your food decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. Movements get hard and constipated. They can't do it, for they only take out the tail end of your bowels and that doesn't take away enough of the decayed poison. Conscience won't help at all.

Only a free flow of your bile juice will stop this decayed poison in your bowels. The one reliable vegetable medicine which starts a free flow of your bile juice is Carter's Little Liver Pills. No salines (mercury) in Carter's. Only fine, mild vegetable extracts. If you would bring back your personal health, take Little Liver Pills according to directions today. See at drug stores.

Refuse "something just as good" for it may grip, loosen teeth or scald rectum. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for. ©1933, C. M. Co.

culars from the Indiana state police, asking the apprehension of Pearl Elliott. She has long been sought as the advance fixer and brains as well as treasurer of the Dillinger gang. It was this former proprietress of a fancy Kokomo establishment who engaged apartments for them to come to do their jobs, who divided the swag, and who acted as judge and jury in their inter-gang quarrels.

I couldn't place Irene Williams, but she herself, told me that she was a friend of John's.

I mused up to them, and to the Elliott woman I said: "Hello, Pearl."

She wheeled.

"What brings you here?" I asked.

She hesitated, then answered:

"I came for a last look at Johnny. He never threw me down and I wouldn't do it on him."

PIERPONT'S SWEETHEART

A few minutes later, I came face to face with Mary Kinder. Mary was arrested with Dillinger, Harry Pierpont and others at Tucson, Arizona. She is the sweetheart of Pierpont. She tried to marry him after he had been convicted, and with his handcuffs on he put his powerful arms around her and kissed her a passionate farewell—forever—for he is soon to "burn" in the Ohio big house.

Mary had been at the little Mooresville hotel all night, waiting for Dillinger's body. She wasn't registered, but she was there. I talked to her. She said:

"Tough on Johnny. I liked him. I used to cook frogs' legs for the mob, and Johnny went for 'em in a big way."

Then she sighed:

"If he'd lived a little longer, he'd have got my man out. He was working on it all the time. So was I. So am I now. I'd dig him out with my finger-nails if I could. And I haven't given up hope yet."

With Mary was her sister, Margaret Behrens, wife of a bank-rober who is doing a long "stretch"; last time I had seen her she was being sweated by the state police in Indianapolis over some little help she had thrown to some of the Dillinger gang who were hiding out after breaking out.

She wouldn't talk. They got nowhere with her. A pretty hard-boiled girl, Margaret. Not a word.

The state troopers still refer to her as "Silent Maggie." I tried to get her to talk. She wasn't entirely silent, but what she said I can't pass along—not in a newspaper.

Later, in a car with some others, I encountered "Babe" Longacre. It was Dillinger who gave her the pet-name, for he wrote her love-letters addressed "Dear Babe." Dillinger once wrote to her:

"I only wish I had you and two or three sweet kids and was in South America with Jimmy with us."

HAMILTON IN TOWN?

The nick-name of John Hamilton is "Jimmy" whom the police of the world are hunting. There was a whisper that he, too, had been seen in Mooresville. I didn't see him. It's pretty hard to believe. But didn't Dillinger come home here when he was the "hottest"

citizen of the nation, and didn't he play with his half-sisters in the yard where neighbors who knew him saw him, and didn't he go to Maywood, where his remains now repose, to call on his sister, Audrey, and take her for a ride in his new, stolen car?

Pearl Elliott, alone as far as I know, of the five, was taking a long chance in showing up here.

On the circulars requesting her detention are photographs of her. Those circulars have never been recalled.

Evelyn Frechetti is doing her year up north, and she couldn't attend. With that exception, every known female associate of Dillinger came to Mooresville—all but one—the one he married. She had divorced him after two years of his first long sentence and she has since married a respectable farmer near here.

Marine Corps Seeks Unlimited Recruits

During the next five months the recruiting district of Chicago will accept an unlimited number of young men between the ages of seventeen and twenty-five, between 5 feet 8 inches and 6 feet 2 inches, must be a high school graduate and have no physical defects for enlistment in the United States Marine Corps.

The Marine Corps offers a steady position with chances for advancement. It also offers a chance for travel and education. Marines travel all over the world: China, Cuba, Haiti, Panama, Hawaii, and the Philippines. Marines serve on all battleships of the United States Navy and on first class cruisers.

If you will write to the Marine Corps Recruiting Station at Room 824 New Post Office Building, Chicago, Illinois, and request further information it will be gladly furnished. All enlistments are for four years and young men under the age of twenty-one will have to have the consent of their parents.

Experience Counts in Congress

"A man has to learn to be a Representative just as he must learn to be a blacksmith, a carpenter, a farmer, an engineer, a lawyer, or a doctor—that is, useful and influential Congressmen are made largely by experience and practice," are the words spoken years ago by Former Speaker of the House of Representatives Champ Clark.

Many sections of the country have considered it an unwise performance to change Representatives at short intervals. As has been aptly said: "A new Congressman must begin at the foot of the class and spell up." In perhaps no other business, does seniority or length of service amount to so much as in the Congress of the United States. Length of service in the House with the advantages of knowledge and acquaintance with the work of the various governmental departments, gained by years of experience on the job, helps a Member to be of more useful service to his country and to his constituents back home.

A Member of Congress who has capacity, industry, honesty, sobriety and courage, who is willing and strives to perform his duties faithfully and well is bound to gain position and influence with the seniority or length of his service in the House of Representatives. Due to this factor many Members of the lower branch of Congress have been serving for a period as long as 30 years. Experience counts in Congress.

The Honorable Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, present Speaker of the House of Representatives, had served 15 terms or 30 years in Congress before being elevated to the Speakership.

Honorable Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee served 13 terms or 26 years before being selected as Majority Leader.

Vice President John N. Garner, served 15 terms or 30 years and had been re-elected to Congress when he was elevated to the office of Vice President of the United States.

Charles H. Grosvenor, Republican, represented this district for 11 terms or 22 years and held a prominent position in the Legislative Hall of Congress.

Uncle Joe Cannon, Republican, of Illinois, late Speaker of the House of Representatives, served 22 terms or 44 years.

The Republican Minority Leader, Mr. Snell of New York, has served 10 terms or 20 years.

Seniority and length of service count much in Congress. This was shown when the Democrats came into power and organized the House. For example, Texas, by reason of the length of service of the Members of her Delegation to-day has:

Martin Jones as Chairman of the important Committee on Agriculture.

Sam Rayburn as Chairman of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee.

Mr. Mansfield as Chairman of the Rivers and Harbors Committee.

James P. Buchanan as Chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee.

Hatton W. Sumners as Chairman of the important Judiciary Committee.

Congressman Lanham as Chairman of the Public Buildings and Grounds Committee.

Giving to Texas six of the most important Chairmanships in the House of Representatives because that State had regularly re-elected and returned their Congressmen to Congress.

"Our Congressman" Mell G. Underwood has served six consecutive terms or 12 years as representative of the 11th District and is now the ranking member from Ohio. Because of his experience and faithful discharge of duty he is at present chairman of one of the most important House Committees.

He has represented the entire District, comprised of five counties and has a broad district viewpoint—not a narrow county interest. He has rendered faithful, efficient and satisfactory service to all his constituents. This is proven by the fact that in the last election, he carried all five counties by a vote of approximately two to announcement, which went out through all the nation, that Chancellor Dollfuss had resigned. The radio broadcaster was forced at the point of Nazi pistols, to send out the baseless report.

It also was reported that the Nazis, when they entered the station, shot and killed the director, although this was not definitely confirmed.

Later it was reported the Nazis had been driven from the station by regular army troops and Heimwehr, in a fierce battle in which ten were said to have been killed.

SEIZE ONLY TWO

It was understood the announced plan of the Nazis was to seize all public buildings. As far as could be learned, however, only the radio station and the chancellery have thus far been attacked.

Police headquarters were heavily guarded by machine guns which bristled from every window.

It was first announced by police that President Miklas was among those being held prisoner at the chancellery but this was later retracted. They stated the president was not in Vienna.

VIENNA, July 24.—Austria tottered on the verge of revolution today as Nazis attempted a "putsch" to seize control of the government.

Taking advantage of the government's preoccupation with raids on Socialists and other alleged agitators during which more than 2,000 have been arrested during the past few days, the Nazis struck suddenly.

First, they seized station W I E N, Vienna's leading radio broadcasting station to send out to the country what was believed to be the signal for a nation-wide Nazi uprising.

Armed Nazis forced the announcer to interrupt a musical program and broadcast a false report that Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss had resigned. Government buildings, it was believed,

Together Seventy Long Years

All a couple needs to make a marriage successful is plenty of good, rich, English fruit cake, so assert Mr. and Mrs. William Groves, above, residents of Bountiful, Utah, who are now in their seventieth year of wedded life. Groves, who is 91, and his wife, 96, went to Utah in 1880 from New Zealand, where they were married in 1864. They are one of the oldest, if not the oldest, married couple in the United States.

were to be seized immediately. Unconfirmed reports immediately spread like wildfire throughout the city. In the confusion, with police guards patrolling the city and blocking access to many sections, it was not immediately possible to ascertain the exact status of the movement.

ATTACKED CHANCELLERY

One report was that armed Nazis had attempted to seize the Chancellery, official home of Chancellor Dollfuss. Soldiers guarding the Chancellery were reported to have driven off the attackers.

Another rumor said that Major Emil Fey had been shot and wounded. Major Fey was vice chancellor at the time of the Socialist revolt in February which the government suppressed with ruthless strength and many were killed throughout the nation. He is now minister of safety, having yielded the post of vice-chancellor to Prince Ernst Rudiger Von Stahrenberg, leader of the Fascist Heimwehr and strongest supporter of the Dollfuss regime.

There were sounds of heavy firing, reminiscent of the bloody days of last February, from outlying sections of the city but so confused was the situation and so stringent the police restrictions that the source of significance of the firing could not be ascertained.

As soon as the "putsch" began, the police immediately doubled the guards about all public buildings. Steel-helmeted Heimwehr, heavily armed, were rushed in trucks to the Chancellery. No one was allowed to approach the building.

The announcement broadcast said that Anton Rintelen, former ambassador to Italy, had been asked to form a new government. Rintelen is a former Heimwehr leader who was dropped from that organization when he refused to accept the compromise agreement between Prince Von Stahrenberg and Dollfuss whereby the Heimwehr supported the chancellor and maintained him in power. He is now known as a Nazi leader.

gram it would be necessary to organize the counties in the Scioto-Sandusky area into a conservancy district.

CIRCULATE PETITIONS

Petitions are circulated throughout the district and when 500 names have been secured, they are filed with one of the common pleas courts in the district. At an appointed time, the common pleas judges of the 17 counties convene as a conservancy court to pass upon the petitions.

If the program is approved, the conservancy court appoints three directors to carry out the plans. An application would be made to Congress for an appropriation and assessment would be made against the benefiting property owners in the district in paying for the project.

Jordan said that under the proposed program, Pickaway county would get two reservoirs. One would be located on Darby creek near Harrisburg while the other would be on Deer Creek near Williamsport.

It is estimated that $5,000 will be needed for the preliminary work in organizing the counties into a conservancy district. Columbus has already voted to raise $2,000; Marion will raise $1,000; Chillicothe, $500; Portsmouth, $600; and Waverly, $200 Jordan said. Other counties will also be visited and asked to share the expense, he said.

EIGHT VOLUNTEER

At last night's meeting the following men volunteered as solicitors to get the $500 and signatures on the petitions: Col. C. E. Groce, James I. Smith, Harry Heffner, T. O. Gilliland, David Courtright, Mack Parrett, Jr., A. Hulise Hays, and George P. Foresman.

WILLIAMSPORT GIRL SEEKING DIPLOMA

ATHENS, July 25.—The summer session marking the close of the 130th academic year at Ohio university will be concluded Aug. 3 with commencement exercises for 145 students. Graduations are held in February, June and August. With the conferring of degrees and diplomas here next month the total of these scholastic awards will become the largest for any year in the history of the school.

The regular summer session will be followed by a special three weeks term during which the classroom method of instruction will give way to a student-instructor conference basis of study. Ohio University's experimentation with this new method last year was a successful one and led to a repetition of the procedure this year. Although students may complete work for degrees during the post session, no formal graduation exercises will be held for them.

Marjorie Mae Ater, Williamsport, is one of the candidates for the diploma in elementary education.

Tarantulas Kill Birds

Large tarantulas are said to have the ability to catch and kill birds, but most scientists deny their power to kill a human being, although a bite from one is very painful. Smaller tarantulas, native to the southwestern United States, are declared not only to be entirely harmless to man but beneficial, because they feed on insects that are destructive to crops.

CATTLE DYING AS HANDLERS STRIKE

CHICAGO, July 25.—With drought-weakened cattle perishing of thirst and neglect in the pens the strike of 800 members of the Live Stock Handlers' union local No. 517, rapidly took on the proportions of a general walkout at the Union stock yards today.

The Live Stock Commission Men's union, local No. 519, voted to join the strike. At the same time the butchers issued an ultimatum that they would butcher no cattle not handled by union labor.

Officials admitted that butchering in all probability will cease until the strike is settled.

Hopes for settlement of the Handlers' Union strike remained remote, however, while the thirst-crazed animals jamming the stock pens suffered and died in the extreme heat. Cattle were perishing at the rate of one every five minutes.

long duration and the widespread area it affords.

Meanwhile, the toasting sun continued to pile up a staggering toll of dead and cause other hardships.

More than 800 fatalities throughout the country east of the Rockies have been reported since the devastating heat wave began its work.

CHICAGO, July 25.—High pressure areas moving down from Alaska today brought Chicago its first relief from the sweltering tropical heat that sent the mercury to 103 degrees here, an all time high record.

Cooling breezes from Lake Michigan succeeded the stifling southwest winds that punished the city's millions for nearly one week.

Fifty-four persons died from the high temperatures here within the last 30 hours, bringing the total for the heat wave to 145. The burning rays of the sun had prostrated hundreds of men and women.

Twelve aged men and women, wards of the Oak Forest infirmary, died yesterday of the heat.

GOOD WILL SALE DRAWING CROWDS

According to Harold McCord, local manager of Cussins & Fearn, prosperity has "turned the corner" long ago and is here today. He bases this statement, he asserts, on the fact that since the Good-Will Sale of the Cussins & Fearn Company has been in progress his store has been crowded with eager buyers.

"You can't tell me," he continued, "that people haven't money to spend when real values are offered them. This isn't just a mere opinion. I have facts to back me up. Our Good-Will Sale has attracted thousands of customers to our store and I am gratified to note that the average amount of their purchases is higher than usual."

"Now, that just couldn't happen if people were 'broke,' out of employment, or without an income."

Whether or not people have as much money to spend as they ever had I don't know. But I do know that most of them go where they can get exceptional values for what they do spend. Our Good-Will Sale offers that kind of values. People know it, and so our Sale to date has been a huge success. Many of our bargain offerings have been snapped up so quickly that I have already had to ask our headquarters at Columbus to rush additional supplies."

SAN JOSE, Cal.—The skeletons of a man and a horse in a single grave were unearthed here by workmen digging a pit for a gas tank in the yard of the J. Paine residence. Some laughed with hysteria as they filed slowly past.

Lower Building Costs

BUILDING has lagged behind other industries in the slow, tedious climb out of stagnation and the reasons are restricted credit and high prices. People have been unable to borrow for construction purpose and if they could building costs have been exorbitant measured on a basis of sound financing.

There had to be a break sometime and it has come; the lumber industry taking the first step. The Lumber Code Authority has approved of prices cut by manufacturers and retailers which mean a 15 per cent saving for the builder. Construction will find in this a real impetus, since lumber is a major item in all house construction and in most other building. A 15 per cent saving on his lumber bill is an almost irresistible incentive for the prospective home builder to point his stakes for the survivors.

Now if the building trades would agree to reasonable wages the country would witness a rapid recovery for the entire building industry. Labor costs, especially in the larger communities, have continued prohibitive in comparison with other costs. Some trades could accept a 5 per cent reduction in their wage scale and still draw a larger hourly wage than most professional men.

You can judge the size of a man by the size of the job that swells him up.

Discovery

THERE are now known to science 93 elements in the earth's structure, for two scientists have recently claimed the discovery of element 93. One scientist says he created the substance by bombarding uranium with neutron rays; the other by removing a strange salt from pitchblende. For a time the remainder of the scientific world will apply itself to the verification of these claims.

Aviation is not especially interested in the new element since it is the heaviest mineral yet found in the earth's make-up. It is also rare and scientifically precious.

Element 93, if the new salt proves to be unrelated to the other 92 known elements, is intensely interesting to the scientific mind because weight is still a scientific mystery. Scientists will use the new element to learn something new about weights.

Suggested as a test is a comparison by apothecaries' weight between the new element and some of the weight political issues of the day.

THE LONE WOLF'S SON

by LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

CHAPTER XXXIII

Left alone with the guard, Maurice had a look round the sitting-room that confirmed him in his poor opinion of the Bellamy. It was hard to understand what the family physician could have been thinking of, to have lodged Fanno's father in such a hole. If his hurts had been so slight that he could be moved in from the street to these grubby accommodations, one would think, he might as readily have been conveyed to his own home. If serious, surely he should have been taken straightway to some hospital of the first class.

Baffled understanding could only fall back on the reflection that every country has its peculiar customs—ways often at first sight quite illogical in alien eyes.

Maurice idly moved round the table and shifted a chair, so that he might sit down without squaring himself at his companion. Something thumped on the floor; and the guard, with profanity, plumped to his knees and retrieved a corkless bottle which had been left standing beneath the chair, as if stowed there in haste for want of a handier hiding-place.

"Good grief!" he lamented, getting up. "Almost that was a tragedy, fella. However, I guess there wasn't any spilled to speak of. I got to hand it to me—I'm one spry 'ol guy when liquor's in peril."

He grinned at Maurice over the bottle as he had a ravished sniff at its neck.

"Right stuff! Suppose I and you treat ourselves to a shot; how about it?"

"Many thanks," Maurice replied. "I haven't any taste for whisky. But don't let me prevent you." "Hot chanc't." The humorist slopped a stiff dram into one of the used glasses, took it raw, and smacked lips of gusto. "Maybe you know best about your drinkin', but they's one thing you don't know, and that's what you're missin'."

"I'm sure."

"I know." A singular geniality had already extinguished his earlier insolence; it was strangely as if the creature had made up his mind to forgive Maurice the misfortune of being a foreigner, and by treating him as an equal, make full amends. "You're scared, a-count of all you've heard tell about rot-passin' for hootch over here. Well, believe it or not, you got no call to be in this hotel; anything a person gets here is right—genuine import' goods that ain't even been uncorked, let alone cut, before they buy it."

"One is to understand you are well acquainted here?"

"With this dump? Only like I am with the palms of my hand." The man slouched down in his chair, offered cigarettes, and when Maurice politely declined, lighted one for himself. "Why wouldn't I be? Don't I live here?"

"You live here?"

"I bot me four life. Anything funny about that?" "Only, I daresay, to one accustomed as I am to look at such matters from a European viewpoint. To me, I confess, it seems curious that a wage-earner should be able to afford American hotel tariffs. I can only infer that the difference between your wage-scale and ours accounts for it, monsieur."

The guard, sitting with his head cocked at a quizzical angle, and giving his ironical grin full play again, permitted a surprising volume of smoke to drain off through his nostrils before replying: "Ain't tryin' to kid me or anything, are you, fella?"

"But I do not know you well enough to jest with you on personal matters."

To this, after another instant of silent speculation, the guard returned with a wag of a defeated head.

"All I can say is, one of us is all wet."

A good-natured shrug conveyed that Maurice was content to let that pass. If his course in the American vernacular under Tess Boyce was incomplete, if it had yet to put him on speaking terms with

"all wet," the tone rang true to the guard's general attitude with him. He made no doubt but that he was being kidded—but it didn't matter. The only thing that really irked him was a feeling that the time was long since Fanno had gone in to see her father. And when he turned his ears for the rumor of voices in the bed-chamber, he could detect none.

Odd, that—with four people in there, and a door between that looked anything but sound-proof.

Maurice frowned, got up, and moved to the window. Its view of a segment of New York by night might at any other time have inter-

hold of the knob and threw the door wide.

The guard at the same time sat forward to grind out the coal of his tobacco on the tray. A burst of French expletives behind him had no effect on this display of phlegm; only when the boy flung back to catch him by a shoulder and stand over him with hot eyes in a face bleached by passion, did he consent to put on a look of innocent astonishment.

"Where are they? There's nobody in that room! What does this mean? Where have they taken Fanno?"

"The Crozier kid? She's all

"Where are they. There's nobody in this room! Where have they taken Fanno?"

right." A shake dislodged Maurice's hand. Don't sweat yourself so, fella, and don't be so gay with your mits, or somebody's liable to crown you. Sit down and pant it off and have a drink. Nobody's goin' to do the directory. Simple curiosity prompted him to look for its listings under "Gotham"; and having done so, he thoughtfully replaced the book and looked again to the guard.

"Isn't it strange that the Gotham Safe Deposit Company should have no telephone connection?"

"Maybe," its representative allowed.

"But its administration must have an office—"

"Says you."

"What does that mean? I said no more than is obvious. Do you mind telling me where the office is?"

"All in your eye, fella—all in your eye."

"Forgive me if I fail to follow you."

"That's all right." The liberality of this assurance was offset by intimation of mockery broader than any yet and by none of an intention to explain the anomaly away. And of a sudden, exasperated, Maurice faced about, strode to the bedchamber door and thumped it with peremptory knuckles.

No one answered.

He knocked again, looked back to see the other covering him with a glimmer of lazy amusement—and at last all out of patience—laid him; now it diverted his mind not at all. He turned back, aware that eyes alive with malice were following him, and to stave off a resumption of amenities, he stopped at a telephone stand and took up the directory. Simple curiosity prompted him to look for its listings under "Gotham"; and having done so, he thoughtfully replaced the book and looked again to the guard.

Maurice survived a moment when he felt he must strangle for inability either to contain or to give tongue to his rage. Unconsciously he put up a hand to ease the bind of his collar. "Damn you!" he muttered. I should have suspected! I might have known—

"You ought to've." The man in uniform gave a sympathetic nod. "I said it was a shame not to tip you off, but the crowd was afraid of how you'd handle, afraid you'd air back on us, maybe, and paw the air and spoil the show before we got you gentled. They claimed the business, and if they hadn't seen fit to put you hen, it was better we should put the job through first and let you work your mad off when it was too late."

"So that was it," the boy mumbled, in a stare,—"that's the explanation!"

"Sho, sho! We got the works by wireless soon's you and the cutie took off from the ship; and I'm here to tell you that didn't give us too much time to get everything all set—"

Faulty Habits Effect Health

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

CHRONIC FAILURE of elimination is an affliction of modern civilization. Often it can be traced to lack of exercise, faulty living habits, bad posture, and improper food. A frequent factor and one that may be overlooked, is inflammation of the lower end of the intestine. It causes that part to be very sensitive and to escape pain or tearing of the tissues, the victim habitually postpones nature's call. In consequence, he soon acquires a habit of constipation.

Faulty habit formation in children is a common cause in early life. Unfortunately, once this bad habit is acquired, it persists throughout adult life. It may lead to digestive disturbances, to various constitutional disorders and even to permanently impaired health.

Constipation is usually associated with some disorder of the body. It should never be considered as a disease, but as a symptom or a sign of some disturbance. It is more prevalent among women and is a common affliction in persons beyond middle age.

Watch Your Diet

I am frequently asked how to correct this trouble. First, may I warn you against the so-called "constipation medicines." They give only temporary relief, rarely if ever bringing about complete cure.

Include in your daily menu an adequate supply of fresh fruits and vegetables and partake of a well-balanced, nutritious diet. Such foods as prunes, apricots and figs are beneficial because of the natural laxative action they possess. Bran, rye and whole wheat may be substituted for white bread, but this is not always essential to relief.

A moderate amount of exercise, proper chewing of food, regular eating habits, an adequate number of hours of rest and relaxation, are essential to proper digestion and elimination. Drink at least six to eight glasses of water each day. Avoid those foods that are difficult to digest and which cause you digestive disturbances.

If constipation persists despite these simple rules, I would advise that you consult with your physician. It may be necessary to have X-ray examination and other laboratory tests to determine the underlying cause of the disorder.

Dolores Del Rio had to plunge a dagger into Ricardo Cortez' chest eight times before she finally killed him for a scene in the First National musical drama, "Wonder Bar," which comes to the Grand Theatre.

In the finished production, you see her strike but once. It was in the filming of the scene that she had to strike so many blows. This is one of the big scenes in the picture and Director Lloyd Bacon was not satisfied with it until it had been retaken eight times.

AT THE CLIFTONA

A new screen team, one destined to develop into high popularity, will be introduced when "Yes, Mr. Brown," latest Artists picture, has its premier at the Cliftona Theatre, tonight.

The team is that of Jack Buchanan and Elsie Randolph, the most popular musical comedy favorites London has known for years. Buchanan is widely known in America as well, having been starred in several Broadway stage shows and in three Hollywood productions.

The history of the new team goes back for several years. In fact, it dates from the time that Buchanan "discovered" Miss Randolph in one of his stage shows at the London Hippodrome. At the time the young woman was cast in a very small comedy bit, but at the star's behest she was sirable alien. She had been convicted of operating a disorderly house.

Dillinger's other woman companion at the theater was the desperado's last sweetheart, Mrs. Roy Keele, 26 years old, the divorced wife of a Gary (Ind.) policeman. It was her picture which was found pasted in the back of the watch Dillinger wore.

Mrs. Keele, whose maiden name was Polly Rita Hamilton, left following the shooting at Fargo, N. D., where her father is said to be a minister, Mrs. Sage told her questions.

Before Mrs. Sage was surrendered to department of justice agents on orders of Police Commissioner John Allman detectives learned that the "woman in red" was an acquaintance of Sergt. Martin Zarkovich of the East Chicago (Ind.) police, the man credited with setting the stage for Dillinger's end.

But Mrs. Sage, who insisted she "never guessed that man was Dillinger," denied that she had had any contact with Sergt. Zarkovich. Moreover, she said she had no hope of collecting any of the $15,000 reward money offered for the betrayal and capture of the super-desperado.

POSED AS CLERK

Dillinger had posed as a "Jimmy Lawrence," a clerk on the Board of Trade here, Mrs. Sage said. He was always a good spender on beer parties and frequent night club jaunts during his last carefree weeks.

The woman admitted having frequently entertained Mrs. Keele and Dillinger in her apartment. Of Dillinger's last few hours on earth Mrs. Sage said:

"Polly and her boy friend came to my apartment Sunday afternoon and we went to the movie in the evening. The shooting happened when we came out. I was the woman in the red dress."

Mrs. Sage refused to answer when asked if she had "Traded Dillinger for the right to stay in the United States."

When asked if he believed the

NEW TIRE SCORES UNUSUAL NON-SKID MILEAGE RECORDS

Unprecedented non-skid mileage records are being piled up by the new Goodyear "G-3" tire, according to Guy Pettit, local Goodyear dealer.

"The new 'G-3' had been sold to motorists in many sections of the country before a public announcement of the tire was made, in order that the public's reaction might be obtained," Mr. Pettit declared.

"In every case car owners noticed they were getting longer non-skid mileage. Due to its wider, flatter tread, more center traction and other advantages, including an average of two pounds more rubber in the tread, the new 'G-3' delivered 43 per cent more non-skid mileage during the hardest trials that could be devised by the Goodyear test fleet.

"In actual use on the average automobile, the 'G-3' gives more than the advertised 43 per cent non-skid mileage; and hundreds of letters from motorists who realized they were getting extra non-skid miles, but didn't know the reason until the 'G-3' was publicly announced, have been received by the company. The opinion of most of the writers is that 43 per cent is too low and that the 'G-3' actually delivers a much larger percentage," he concluded.

woman had a part in "putting the finger" on Dillinger, Police Capt. Thomas Duffy, who directed the questioning, declared:

"Well she was a friend of Sergt. Zarkovich, and you know the part he had in killing Dillinger."

TOLD TO BE QUIET

Mrs. Sage was ordered to quit talking with the arrival of federal agents led by Investigator Samuel A. Cowley, one of the agents who opened fire on Dillinger when he left the theater.

Detectives arrested Mrs. Sage as she was entering her apartment, which is just around the corner from the Biograph theater where Dillinger was slain.

Mrs. Keele, a former waitress in a neighborhood restaurant, had quit her job two weeks ago at the persuasion of Dillinger, police learned by questioning the restaurant owner and Miss Maxine Dunn, a waitress.

Dillinger called for his sweetheart each evening after work. The girl apparently kept living quarters both at Mrs. Sage's apartment and at a hotel.

From the story told by Miss Dunn it was evident, police said, that Mrs. Keele knew the identity of her moustached, bespectacled sweetheart.

Sunday night, Miss Dunn recalled, the girl entered the restaurant out of breath at 11 o'clock, 20 minutes after Dillinger was shot down. The killing occurred three miles from the eating place.

"Dillinger was just killed, the young divorcee gasped. Asked how she knew, Mrs. Keele replied:

"Wait till the papers come out

Something Different—From Your Oven

Have you ever tired of plain pastry? For a fruit pie the plain pastry is the best crust to use, but for a bland pie like a cream or a custard you might like to try this idea!

Different Pie Crust

Chilled orange juice instead of the required amount of water.
1 Tbsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. grated rind for each pie shell

Use this proportion with your favorite pastry recipe. Bake the shell as usual and fill with your own cream or custard mixture.

Peanut Butter Cake

1 C. sugar 3 tsp. baking powder
1/2 C. butter 1/2 C. milk
2 C. cake flour, 1 tsp. vanilla
sifted 3 egg whites

Cream butter and blend with sugar. Add dry and liquid ingredients alternately. Add flavoring and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in 2 layers for 25 minutes at 375 degrees. Frost with 7-minute icing as follows: 2 unbeaten egg whites, 1/4 C. sugar, 6 tablespoons cold water. Place in top of double boiler, beating constantly. Cook until the mixture stands in peaks. Beat and spread on the cake. When cool add the peanut butter swirl, which is made by boiling 1/4 C. sugar and 1/2 C. water for 5 minutes. Stir into 1/2 C. peanut butter. When smooth and thickened, swirl on the cake.

Whole Wheat Muffins

1 C. whole wheat 1 C. milk
flour 1 egg, well beaten
1/2 C. white flour 3 Tbsp. melted
1/4 C. sugar butter
1 tsp. salt 2 tsp. baking powder

Combine dry ingredients. Combine liquid ingredients and add to the dry mixture as quickly as possible, mixing only enough to dampen the flour. Bake at 425 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

Broiled Ham and Pineapple

Heat the broiler oven very hot, gash the fat on the edge of the slice of ham. Place near the flame for the first five minutes, turn the slice and lower the flame and cook until tender. Drain the juice from the sliced pineapple, and dry each slice. About 10 minutes before the ham is done place the slices of pineapple on the ham and cook until a golden brown. For a particularly festive looking serving, cherries or raisins may be inserted in the pineapple rings and a brown sugar sauce spread over the fruit for a gloss just before serving.

Banana Caramel Custard

1/2 C. sugar 2 egg yolks
2 C. scalded milk 1/2 tsp. vanilla
2 Tbsp. flour 3 or 4 sliced bananas

Put sugar in frying pan and stir constantly over a low fire until melted. Add this to scalded milk, stir until dissolved, then add to flour mixed with beaten egg yolks and place in a double boiler. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Add vanilla and pour over sliced bananas on baking dish. Cover with meringue made of egg whites and brown in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.).

and you'll see."

CALLED FOR CLOTHES

Miss Dunn said she received a telephone call the next day from Mrs. Keele asking her to go to the hotel quarters of the latter and get some clothes for her. Miss Dunn refused, she said.

Miss Florence Dunton, S. Court-st., Miss Winifred Parrett, W. Franklin-st., and Mrs. Clarence Hott, Columbus, left Wednesday on a motoring trip to Washington D. C., where they will spend several days.

"Our Congressman" Moll G. Underwood has served six consecutive terms or 12 years as representative of the 11th District in Congress and is now the ranking member from Ohio. Because of his experience and faithful discharge of duty is at present chairman of one of the most important House Committees.

He has represented the entire District, comprised of five counties and has a broad district viewpoint, not a narrow county interest. He has rendered faithful, efficient and satisfactory service to all constituents. This is proven by the fact that in the last election he carried all five counties by a vote of approximately two to one with a total majority of over 600 votes.

President Roosevelt needs of wide experience. It is the duty of every progressive citizen to give his vote and influence to Cong. M. G. Underwood back in Washington this fall.

DOLLFUSS CAPTURED

announcement, which went out through all the nation, that Chancellor Dollfuss had resigned. The radio broadcaster was forced at the point of Nazi pistols, to send out the baseless report.

It also was reported that the Nazis, when they entered the station shot and killed the director, although this was not definitely confirmed.

Later it was reported the Nazis had been driven from the station by regular army troops and Heimwehr, in a fierce battle in which ten were said to have been killed.

SEIZE ONLY TWO
It was understood the announced plan of the Nazis was to seize all public buildings. As far as could be learned, however, only the radio station and the chancellery have thus far been attacked.

Police headquarters were heavily guarded by machine guns which bristled from every window.

It was first announced by police that President Miklas was among those being held prisoner at the chancellery but this was later retracted. They stated the president was not in Vienna.

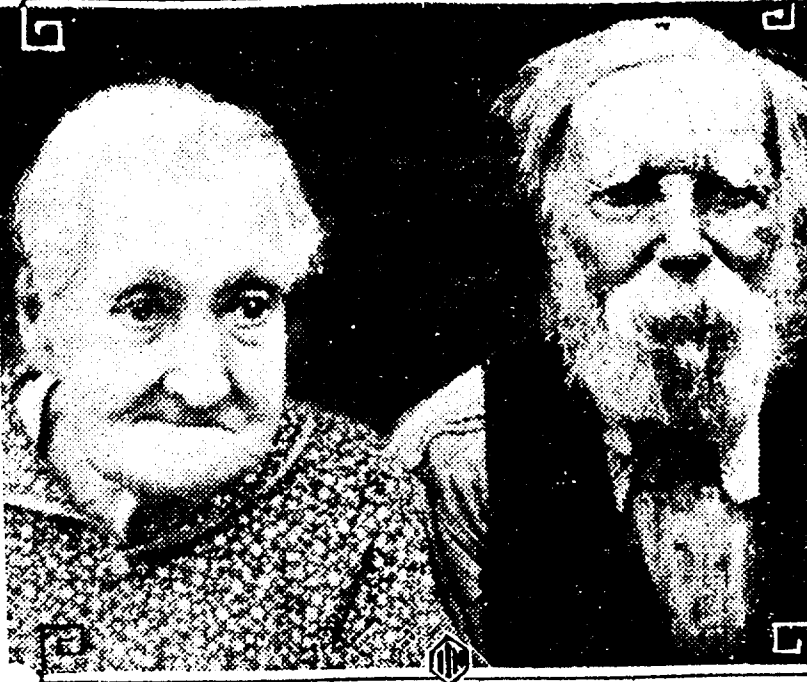

VIENNA, July 24.—Austria tottered on the verge of revolution today as Nazis attempted a "putsch" to seize control of the government.

Taking advantage of the government's preoccupation with raids on Socialists and other alleged agitators during which more than 2,000 have been arrested during the past few days, the Nazis struck suddenly.

First, they seized station W I E N, Vienna's leading radio broadcasting station to send out to the country what was believed to be the signal for a nation-wide Nazi uprising.

Armed Nazis forced the announcer to interrupt a musical program and broadcast a false report that Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss had resigned. Government buildings, it was believed,

Together Seventy Long Years

All a couple needs to make a marriage successful is plenty of good, rich, English fruit cake, so assert Mr. and Mrs. William Groves, above, residents of Bountiful, Utah, who are now in their seventieth year of wedded life. Groves, who is 91, and his wife, 96, went to Utah in 1880 from New Zealand, where they were married in 1864. They are one of the oldest, if not the oldest, married couple in the United States.

were to be seized immediately. Unconfirmed reports immediately spread like wildfire throughout the city. In the confusion with police guards patrolling the city and blocking access to many sections, it was not immediately possible to ascertain the exact status of the movement.

One report was that armed Nazis had attempted to seize the Chancellery, official home of Chancellor Dollfuss. Soldiers guarding the Chancellery were reported to have driven off the attackers. Another rumor said that Major Emil Fey had been shot and wounded. Major Fey was vice chancellor at the time of the Socialist revolt in February which the government suppressed with ruthless strength and many were killed throughout the nation. He is now minister of safety, having yielded the post of vice-chancellor to Prince Ernst Rudiger von Starhemberg, leader of the Fascist Heimwehr and strongest supporter of the Dollfuss regime.

There were sounds of heavy firing, reminiscent of the bloody days of last February, from outlying sections of the city but so confused was the situation and so stringent the police restrictions that the source of significance of the firing could not be ascertained.

As soon as the "putsch" began, the police immediately doubled the guards about all public buildings. Steel-helmeted Heimwehr, heavily armed, were rushed in trucks to the Chancellery. No one was allowed to approach the building.

The announcement broadcast said that Anton Rintelen, former ambassador to Italy, had been asked to form a new government. Rintelen is a former Heimwehr leader who was dropped from that organization when he refused to accept the compromise agreement between Prince von Starhemberg and Dollfuss whereby the Heimwehr supported the chancellor and maintained him in power. He is now known as a Nazi leader.

THOUSANDS VIEW DILLINGER BODY

Thousands of men and women came in an une ding line to look upon the face of the man they heard so much about. Before them he lay in the county morgue in Chicago. Some laughed with hysteria as they filed slowly past.

CIRCULATE PETITIONS

Petitions are circulated throughout the district and when 500 names have been secured, they are filed with one of the common pleas courts in the district. At an appointed time, the common pleas judges of the 17 counties convene as a conservancy court to pass upon the petitions.

If the program is approved, the conservancy court appoints three directors to carry out the plans. An application would be made to Congress for an appropriation and assessment would be made against the benefiting property owners in the district in paying for the project.

Jordan said that under the proposed program, Pickaway - co would get two reservoirs. One would be located on Darby creek near Harrisburg while the other would be on Deer Creek near Williamsport.

It is estimated that $5,000 will be needed for the preliminary work in organizing the counties into a conservancy district. Columbus has already voted to raise $2,000; Marion will raise $1,000; Chillicothe, $500; Portsmouth, $600, and Waverly, $200 Jordan said. Other counties will also be visited and asked to share the expense, he said.

EIGHT VOLUNTEER

At last night's meeting the following men volunteered as solicitors to get the $500 and signatures on the petitions: Col. C. E. Groce, James I. Smith, Harry Heffner, T. O. Gilliland, David Courtwright, Mack Parrett, Jr., A. Hulse Hays, and George P. Foreman.

ATHENS, July 25.—The summer session marking the close of the 130th academic year at Ohio University will be concluded Aug. 3 with commencement exercises for 145 students. Graduations are held in February, June and August. With the conferring of degrees and diplomas here next month the total of these scholastic awards will become the largest for any year in the history of the school.

The regular summer session will be followed by a special three weeks term during which the classroom method of instruction will give way to a student-instructor conference basis of study. Ohio University's experimentation with this new method last year was a successful one and led to a repetition of the procedure this year. Although students may complete work for degrees during the post session, no formal graduation exercises will be held for them.

Marjorie Mae Ater, Williamsport, is one of the candidates for the diploma in elementary education.

Tarantulas Kill Birds

Large tarantulas are said to have the ability to catch and kill birds, but most scientists deny their power to kill a human being, although a bite from one is very painful. Smaller tarantulas, native to the southwestern United States, are declared not only to be entirely harmless to man but beneficial, because they feed on insects that are destructive to crops.

CATTLE DYING AS HANDLERS STRIKE

The Live Stock Commission Men's union, local No. 519, voted to join the strike. At the same time the butchers issued an ultimatum that they would butcher no cattle not handled by union labor.

Officials admitted that butchering in all probability will cease until the strike is settled. Hopes for settlement of the Handlers' Union strike remained remote, however, while the thirst-crazed animals jamming the stock pens suffered and died in the extreme heat. Cattle were perishing at the rate of one every five minutes.

More than 800 fatalities throughout the country east of the Rockies have been reported since the devastating heat wave began its work.

CHICAGO, July 25.—High pressure areas moving down from Alaska today brought Chicago its first relief from the sweltering tropical heat that sent the mercury to 105 degrees here, an all time high record.

GOOD WILL SALE DRAWING CROWDS

According to Harold McCord, local manager of Cussins & Fearn, prosperity has "turned the corner" long ago and is here today. He bases this statement, he asserts, on the fact that since the Good-Will Sale of the Cussins & Fearn Company has been in progress his store has been crowded with eager buyers.

"You can't tell me," he continued, "that people haven't money to spend when real values are offered them. This isn't just a mere opinion, I have facts to back me up. Our Good-Will Sale has attracted thousands of customers to our store and I am gratified to note that the average amount of their purchases is higher than usual.

Whether or not people have as much money to spend as they ever had I don't know. But I do know that most of them go where they can get exceptional values for what they do spend. Our Good-Will Sale offers that kind of values. People know it, and so our Sale to date has been a huge success. Many of our bargain offerings have been snapped up so quickly that I have already had to ask our headquarters at Columbus to rush additional supplies."

Lower Building Costs

BUILDING has lagged behind
other industries in the slow,
tedious climb out of stagnation and
the reasons are restricted credit and high prices. People have been unable to borrow for construction
purpose and if they could building
costs have been exorbitant measured on a basis of sound financing.

There had to be a break sometime and it has come; the lumber industry taking the first step. The Lumber Code Authority has approved of prices cuts by manufacturers and retailers which mean a 10 per cent saving for the builder.
Construction will find in this a real impetus, since lumber is a major item in all house construction and in most other building. A 10 per cent saving on his lumber
bill is an almost irresistible incentive for the prospective home builder to point his stakes for the surveyors.

Now if the building trades would agree to reasonable wages the country would witness a rapid recovery
for the entire building industry.
Labor costs, especially in the larger communities, have continued prohibitive in comparison with other costs. Some trades could accept a 5 per cent reduction in their wage scale and still draw a larger hourly wage than most professional men.

You can judge the size of a man by the size of the job
that swells him up.

Discovery

THERE are now known to science 93 elements in the earth's structure, for two scientists have recently claimed the discovery of element 93. One scientist says he created the substance by bombarding uranium with neutron
rays; the other by removing a strange salt from pitchblende. For the time the remainder of the scientific world will apply itself to the verification of these claims.

Aviation is not especially interested in the new element since it is the heaviest mineral yet found in the earth's make-up. It is also rare and scientifically precious.
Element 93, if the new salt proves to be unrelated to the other 92 known elements, is intensely interesting to the scientific mind because weight is still a scientific mystery. Scientists will use the new element to learn something new about weights.

Suggested as a test is a comparison by apothecaries' weight between the new element and some of the weight political issues of the day.

"THE ONE WOLF'S SON"

by LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

Left alone with the guard,
Maurice had a look round the sitting-room that confirmed him in his poor opinion of the Bellings. It was hard to understand what the family physician could have been thinking of, to have lodged Feno's father in such a hole. If his hurts had been so slight that he could be moved in from the street to these grubby accommodations, one would think, he might as readily have been conveyed to his own home. If serious, surely he should have been taken straightway to some hospital
of the first class.

Baffled understanding could only fall back on the reflection that every country has its peculiar customs—ways often at first sight
quite illogical in alien eyes.

Maurice idly moved round the table and shifted a chair, so that he might sit down without squaring himself at his companion. Something thumped on the floor, and the guard, with profanity, flung to his knees and retrieved a cork-
less bottle which had been left standing beneath the chair, as if stowed there in haste for want of a handier hiding-place.

"Good grief!" he lamented, getting up. "Almost that was a tragedy, fella. However, I guess there wasn't any spilled to speak of. I got to hand it to me—I'm one spry
fella when liquor's in peril."

He grinned at Maurice over the bottle as he had a ravished sniff at its neck.

"Right stuff! Suppose I and you treat ourselves to a shot; how about it?"

"Many thanks," Maurice replied.
"I haven't any taste for whisky.
But don't let me prevent you."

"Hot chance!" The humorist slopped a stiff dram into one of the used glasses, took it raw, and smacked lips of gusto. "Maybe
you know best about your drinkin',
but there's one thing you don't know,
and that's what you're missin'."

"Im sure."

"I know." A singular geniality
had already extinguished his earlier insolence; it was strangely as if the creature had made up his mind
to forgive Maurice the misfortune of being a foreigner, and by treating him as an equal, make full amends. "You're scared, account of all you've heard tell about rot-
gut passin' for hooch over here.

We believe it or not, you got no
call to be in this hotel; anything
a person gets here is right—genuine import goods that ain't even been uncorked, let alone cut, before they buy it."

"One is to understand you are well acquainted here?"

"With this dump? Only like I am with the palms of my hand." The man slouched down in his chair, offered cigarettes, and when Maurice politely declined, lighted one for himself. "Why wouldn't I be? Don't I live here?"

"You live here!"

"I bet me four life. Anything funny about that?"

"Only, I daresay, to one accustomed as I am to look at such matters from a European viewpoint.

To me, I confess, it seems curious that a wage-earner should be able to afford American hotel tariffs. I can only infer that the difference between your wage-scale and ours
accounts for it, monsieur."

The guard, sitting with his head cocked at a quizzical angle, and giving his ironical grin full play
again, permitted a surprising volume of smoke to drain off through his nostrils before replying:

"Ain't tryin' to kid me or anything, are you, fella?"

"But I do not know you well enough to jest with you on personal matters."

To this, after another instant of silent speculation, the guard returned with a wag of a defeated
head.

"All I can say is, one of us is all wet."

A good-natured shrug conveyed that Maurice was content to let that pass. If his course in the American vernacular under Tess Boyce was inept, if it had any
to put him on speaking terms with

"all wet," the tone rang true to the guard's general attitude with him.
He made no doubt but that he was being kidded, but it didn't matter.
The only thing that really irked
him was a feeling that the time was long since Feno had gone in to see her father. And when he turned his ears for the rumour of voices in the bed-chamber, he could detect none.

Odd, that—with four people in
there, and a door between that looked anything but sound-proof.

Maurice frowned, got up, and moved to the window. Its view of a segment of New York by night
might at any other time have inter-

hold of the knob and threw the door wide.

The guard at the same time sat
forward to grind out the coal of his tobacco on the tray. A burst of French expletives behind him had no effect on this display of phlegm;
only when the boy flung back to catch him by a shoulder and stand over him with hot eyes in a face
bleached by passion, did he consent to put on a look of innocent astonishment.

"Where are they? There's nobody in that room! What does this mean? Where have they taken Feno?"

"The Crozier kid? She's all

"Where are they. There's nobody in this room! Where have they taken Feno?"

ested him; now it diverted his mind not at all. He turned back, aware that eyes alive with malice were following him, and to stave off a resumption of amenities, he stopped
at a telephone stand and took up the directory. Simple curiosity prompted him to look for its listings under "Gotham"; and having done so, he thoughtfully replaced
the book and looked again to the guard.

"Isn't it strange that the Gotham Safe Deposit Company should have no telephone connection?"

"Maybe," its representative allowed.

"But its administration must have an office."

"Says you."

"What does that mean? I said no more than is obvious. Do you mind telling me where the office is?"

"All in your eye, fella—all in your eye."

"Forgive me if I fail to follow
you."

"That's all right."

The liberality of this assurance
was offset by intimation of mockery broader than any yet, and by none of an intention to explain the anomaly away. And of a sudden, exasperated, Maurice faced about,
strode to the bed-chamber door and thumped it with peremptory knuckles.

No one answered.

He knocked again, looked back to see the other covering him with a glimmer of lazy amusement and at last all out of patience—laid right. A shake dislodged Maurice's hand. Don't sweat yourself so, fella, and don't be so gay with your mitts, or somebody's liable to crown

you. Sit down and pant it off and have a drink. Nobody's goin' to do you dirt. The B dame's been took good care of, and so are the emeralds. All you got to do is sit tight and say nothin', and you'll get your cut when the time comes."

Maurice survived a moment when he felt he must struggle for inability either to contain or to give tongue to his rage. Unconsciously he put up a hand to ease the bind
of his collar. "Damn you!" he stuttered. I should have suspected! I might have known—

"You ought to've." The man in uniform gave a sympathetic nod.
"I said it was a shame not to tip
you off, but the crowd was afraid of how you'd handle, afraid you'd r'ar back on us, maybe, and paw the air and spoil the show before we got you gentled. They claimed the bunch that crossed with you knew their business, and if they hadn't seen fit to put you hep, it was better we should put the job through first and let you work your mad off
when it was too late."

"So that was it," the boy mumbled, in a stare,—"that's the explanation!"

"Sho', sho'! We got the works
by wireless soon's you and the cutie
took off from the ship; and I'm here
to tell you that didn't give us too much time to get everything all set—"

Efforts May Be Lost

"In our desire for the praise of our fellow men," said H. H. Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "valuable lives are often wasted in striving for the good opinion of many whose judgment we believe in candor to be of but little worth."

Faulty Habits Effect Health

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

CHRONIC FAILURE or elimination is an affliction of modern civilization. Often it can be traced to lack of exercise, faulty living habits, bad posture, and improper food. A frequent factor and one that may be overlooked, is inflammation of the lower end of the intestine. It causes that pain to be very sensitive and to escape pain or tearing of the tissues,
the victim habitually postpones nature's call. In consequence, he soon acquires a habit of constipation.

Faulty habit formation in children is a common cause in early life. Unfortunately, once this bad habit is acquired, it persists throughout adult life. It may lead to digestive disturbances, to various constitutional disorders and even to permanently
impaired health.

Constipation is usually associated with some disorder of the body. It should never be considered as a disease, but as a symptom or a sign of some disturbance. It is more prevalent among women and is a common affliction in persons beyond middle age.

Watch Your Diet

I am frequently asked how to correct this trouble. First, may I warn you against the so-called "constipation medicines." They give only temporary relief, and if ever bringing about complete cure.

Include in your daily menu an adequate supply of fresh fruits and vegetables and partake of a well-balanced,
nutritious diet. Such foods as prunes, apricots and figs are beneficial because of the natural laxative action
they possess. Bran, rye and whole wheat may be substituted for white bread, but this is not always essential to relief.

A moderate amount of exercise,
proper chewing of food, regular eating habits, an adequate number of hours of rest and relaxation, are essential to proper digestion and elimination. Drink at least six to eight glasses of water each day. Avoid those foods that are difficult to digest
and which cause you digestive disturbances.

If constipation persists despite these simple rules, I would advise that you consult with your physician.
It may be necessary to have X-ray examination and other laboratory
tests to determine the underlying cause of the disorder.

"The new 'G-3' had been sold to motorists in many sections of the country before a public announcement of the tire was made, in order that the public's reaction might be obtained," Mr. Pettit declared.

"In every case car owners noticed they were getting longer non-skid mileage. Due to its wider, flatter tread, more center traction and other advantages, including an average of two pounds more rubber in the tread, the new 'G-3' delivered 43 per cent more non-skid mileage during the hardest trials that could be devised by the Goodyear test fleet.

"In actual use on the average automobile, the 'G-3' gives more than the advertised 43 per cent non-skid mileage; and hundreds of letters from motorists who realized they were getting extra non-skid miles, but didn't know the reason, until the 'G-3' was publicly announced, have been received by the company. The opinion of most of the writers is that 43 per cent is too low and that the 'G-3' actually delivers a much larger percentage," he concluded.

woman had a part in "putting the finger" on Dillinger, Police Capt. Thomas Duffy, who directed the questioning, declared:

"Well she was a friend of Sergt. Zarkovich, and you know the part he had in killing Dillinger."

Mrs. Sage was ordered to quit talking with the arrival of federal agents led by Investigator Samuel A. Cowley, one of the agents who opened fire on Dillinger when he left the theater.

Detectives arrested Mrs. Sage as she was entering her apartment, which is just around the corner from the Biograph theater where Dillinger was slain.

Dillinger called for his sweetheart each evening after work. The girl apparently kept living quarters both at Mrs. Sage's apartment and at a hotel.

From the story told by Miss Dunn it was evident, police said, that Mrs. Keele knew the identity of her mustached, bespectacled sweetheart.

Sunday night, Miss Dunn recalled, the girl entered the restaurant out of breath at 11 o'clock, 20 minutes after Dillinger was shot down. The killing occurred three miles from the eating place.

"Dillinger was just killed, the young divorcee gasped.

Asked how she knew, Mrs. Keele replied:

"Wait till the papers come out

Something Different—From Your Oven

Have you ever tired of plain pastry? For a fruit pie the plain pastry is the best crust to use, but for a bland pie like a cream or a custard you might like to try this idea!

Different Pie Crust

Chilled orange juice instead of the required amount of water.
1 Tbsp. sugar
1 tsp. grated rind for each pie shell.

Use this proportion with your favorite pastry recipe. Bake the shell as usual and fill with your own cream or custard mixture.

Peanut Butter Cake

1 C. sugar 3 tsp. baking powder
1/2 C. butter 1/2 C. milk
2 C. cake flour, 1 tsp. vanilla
sifted 3 egg whites

Cream butter and blend with sugar. Add dry and liquid ingredients alternately. Add flavoring and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in 2 layers for 25 minutes at 375 degrees. Frost with 7-minute icing as follows: 2 unbeaten egg whites, 1 1/2 C. sugar, 6 tablespoons cold water. Place in top of double boiler, beating constantly. Cook until the mixture stands in peaks. Beat and spread on the cake. When cool add the peanut butter swirl, which is made by boiling 1/2 C. sugar and 1/2 C. water for 5 minutes. Stir into 1/2 C. peanut butter. When smooth and thickened, swirl on the cake.

Whole Wheat Muffins

1 C. whole wheat 1 C. milk
flour 1 egg, well beaten
1/2 C. white flour 3 Tbsp. melted
1/2 C. sugar butter
1 tsp. salt 2 tsp. baking powder

Combine dry ingredients. Combine liquid ingredients and add to the dry mixture as quickly as possible, mixing only enough to dampen the flour. Bake at 425 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

Broiled Ham and Pineapple

Heat the broiler oven very hot, wash the fat on the edge of the slice of ham. Place near the flame for the first five minutes, turn the slice and lower the flame and cook until tender. Drain the juice from the sliced pineapple, and dry each slice. About 10 minutes before the ham is done place the slices of pineapple on the ham and cook until a golden brown. For a particularly festive looking serving, cherries or raisins may be inserted in the pineapple rings and a brown sugar sauce spread over the fruit for a gloss just before serving.

1 C. sugar 2 egg yolks
2 C. scalded milk 1/2 tsp. vanilla
2 Tbsp. flour 3 or 4 sliced bananas

Put sugar in frying pan and stir constantly over a low fire until melted. Add this to scalded milk, stir until dissolved, then add to flour mixed with beaten egg yolks and place in a double boiler. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Add vanilla and pour over sliced bananas on baking dish. Cover with meringue made of egg whites and brown in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.).

Put sugar in frying pan and stir constantly over a low fire until melted.

Miss Dunn said she received a telephone call the next day from Mrs. Keele asking her to go to the hotel quarters of the latter and get some clothes for her. Miss Dunn refused, she said.

Miss Florence Duntun, S. Court-st., Miss Winifred Parrett, W. Franklin-st., and Mrs. Clarence Hott, Columbus, left Wednesday on a motoring trip to Washington, D. C., where they will spend several days.
